Lynch Graduate School
Ambassadors Program

Program Description

The Lynch Student Ambassadors Program consists of master’s students across academic programs, who work with The Graduate Office to support our educational mission and outreach to students. Student Ambassadors will work with the staff and graduate assistants within The Graduate Office to host events for prospective and current graduate students. They will help other graduate students on an informal basis by communicating information about academic programs and the student experience within Lynch.

Responsibilities

- Attend several key events throughout the year sponsored by The Graduate Office.
- Act as a representative of the Lynch School and welcome students to our community.
- Serve as an informal resource to graduate students on course selection, field work and practicum experiences, and graduate student life.
- Connect with prospective and current students via email, drop-in meetings, or other informal events.
- Communicate with The Graduate Office staff about events and student support.

Timeline

Required Events (there may be other events that occur throughout the academic year that you will be asked to participate in, if available)

- Welcome Reception (Tuesday, September 19, 2017)
- Open House for Master’s / Doctoral Students (Saturday, October 28, 2017)
- Information Sessions (fall)
- Admissions Webinars (fall and spring)
- Accepted Students Day (Saturday, March 24, 2018)
- Grad Hour (Thursdays from 3-4pm) per your availability
- Guide one (or more) campus tours per semester

Compensation

Lynch School Ambassadors will receive 2 credits of tuition remission (one allocated each semester) worth $2,840 toward their academic program.