Purpose

To facilitate Boston College's compliance with the federal and State laws and regulations that govern the disclosure of institutional, financial assistance, and other types of information by setting forth the University's information disclosure procedures, and identifying the individuals and organizational units responsible for them.

Introduction

On October 7, 1998, President Clinton signed into law the Higher Education Amendments of 1998 (1998 Amendments [Public Law 105-244]). The 1998 Amendments added new requirements to the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended (HEA), regarding the disclosure of institutional and financial assistance information under the Title IV student financial assistance programs authorized by the HEA. The statutory changes made to the HEA by the 1998 Amendments were implemented by the November 1, 1999, Student Assistance General Provisions Final Rule.

The November 1, 1999, Final Rule amended section 668.41 under Title 34 of the Code of Federal Regulations (34 CFR 668.41), Reporting and Disclosure of Information. This section provides definitions, rules for how information must be disseminated to current and prospective students and employees, and an overview of the items that must be disclosed. The new regulations, distinguishing between the provision of notices and the disclosure of information, require institutions to provide enrolled students a notice of the availability of the information to which they are entitled with instructions on how they may obtain it.

Other sections of the HEA, and various other federal and State laws and regulations, also require the disclosure of specific types of information. The general policies and procedures that follow have been formulated to facilitate Boston College's compliance with 34 CFR 668.41 and with other relevant federal and State laws and regulations.

Definitions

Athletically-related student aid is defined by 34 CFR 668.41 as any scholarship, grant, or other form of financial assistance offered by an institution, the terms of which require the recipient to participate in a program of intercollegiate athletics at the institution. Other student aid, of which a student athlete simply happens to be the recipient, is not athletically-related student aid.

Eligible student is defined by 34 CFR 99.3 as a student who has reached 18 years of age or is attending an institution of postsecondary education.

Notice is defined by 34 CFR 668.41 as a notification of the availability of information an institution is required by subpart D of the regulations to disclose, that is provided to an individual on a one-to-one basis through an appropriate mailing or publication, including direct mailing through the U.S. Postal Service, campus mail, or electronic mail. Posting on an Internet web site or an Intranet web site does not constitute a notice.
Prospective employee is defined by 34 CFR 668.41 as an individual who has contacted an eligible institution for the purpose of requesting information concerning employment with that institution.

Prospective student is defined by 34 CFR 668.41 as an individual who has contacted an eligible institution requesting information concerning admission to that institution.
