COURSE DESCRIPTION

This seminar is designed for seniors majoring in International Studies and/or Sociology interested in globalization issues and debates, especially as they are linked to global environmental problems, international development, and global political economy. The seminar: 1) provides the group with a common vocabulary rooted in social history and global sociology for analyzing the current international environment - politically, economically, socially and environmentally; 2) encourages participants to think about future global relationships in an informed and constructive way; 3) prepares students to write carefully on current topics relating to International Studies; and 4) pushes students to exchange views, insights, inquiries.

REQUIREMENTS

Please print out and read the assigned readings for the day they are due, so that we may have a complete discussion with maximum participation each week. Class participation counts for 15% of your final grade.

There are two major writing assignments: First, a 6-8 pp. Midterm Paper in which I will ask you to answer some questions relating to the readings. Second, your Final Paper in International Studies, which is due at the beginning of the final class. We shall be conferring about topics and lengths of these final papers.
Four Required Books (All four books are sold at the campus bookstore, and will be held on Reserve at the O’Neill Library. Books may be taken out for 2 hours in the library and can be renewed if no one is waiting.):

Electronic Readings:
Course readings are available to view online, download, and print on Blackboard Vista.

Attendance/Participation:
IN 530 is a seminar-format class that combines lecture with group discussion. Students’ final grade will depend, in part, on the quality of their participation in class discussion. Obviously, adequate participation requires regular attendance. You must be respectful of other’s viewpoints, experiences, orientation, etc. when discussing the concepts in this class. Debate is inevitable and useful, but be respectful. If you are not, you will be asked to withdraw from the course.

Each of you will be expected to keep abreast of the reading, prepare and make a presentation on materials during at least two of the scheduled sections. We have a good deal of material to cover, so the success of the seminar depends on the active participation of everyone. During the first meeting we shall organize ourselves and generate a schedule of presentations.

You must come prepared with a two-page write-up on the day’s reading every class. Make notes, comments, questions, and critiques of the readings. Readings should be studied before the class for which they are assigned. These assignments count for your attendance and you may not turn them in late or in absentia from the class, so don’t ask to! If it’s late, just keep it for your personal notes. These write-ups will make valuable notes for your exams and potential future work on globalization issues.

NOTE: THERE ARE NO unexcused absences permitted during the semester. For each absence, your participation and write-up grades will be lowered (e.g., for example, if we have 10 write-ups due this semester, with one absence you will receive a maximum score of 90% on write-ups and participation). The only "excused" absences are those presented to me in writing (a) by a health care practitioner certifying that you had a sound medical reason to be absent from class (and note that the BC Infirmary does not give out such notes) or (b) by your Dean certifying that you had a serious personal reason to be absent from class. Job interviews do not count as a legitimate absence, but rather a conscious choice you make to miss class. Don’t ask me for an exemption from this rule.
ASSESSMENT
All grades in IN/SC 530 are based on the percentages shown in Table 1.

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES AND ASSOCIATED GRADES.
Students are responsible for the work listed in Table 2.

You must come prepared with a one to two-page single-spaced write-up on the day’s reading every class.

General Outline:
1. In the first paragraph, provide the general thread of argument, ideas, concepts, and/or themes that run through the readings for the week.
2. In the body of the paper, discuss in detail some of the key concepts and arguments. Discuss the readings in an integrative way; put the current readings in conversation with previous readings. Dig deep into the readings; do not provide a superficial summary. Rather, engage with the reading by giving a critical review of what you choose to focus on.
3. Then, give your view on some of these concepts. Which concepts/arguments make sense to you? Which do not? Use readings from previous weeks to support your claims.
4. This assignment will take some time to master, but it is a valuable skill, so work hard at it.

Students are also required to lead the discussion with a 10-15 minute formal presentation at least twice.

 OPTIONAL: You may write about a current topic that relates to the readings for the week, or that makes you think about the readings in different ways. Use a current source (New York Times, Foreign Affairs, The Economist, etc), and put the week’s readings in conversation with the current event. How does the past inform us about these current events? What are the links between global environmental change and recent issues in politics and economics? What the heck does feudalism have to do with Arab Spring?? Find links between history, long-term social change, and current events. PLEASE BRING IN THE CURRENT SOURCE TO CLASS SO THAT WE MAY SEE IT AS WELL.
