Understanding Sensory Processing Disorders

Maxine Haron, MS, OTR/L, has been practicing occupational therapy (OT) in the Boston area since 1981. Currently, she provides OT at Metrowest Jewish Day School and Rashi School through Gateways: Access to Jewish Education, and also provides OT 2 days a week in Weston Public Schools.

Maxine’s talk will touch on:

- Sensory Integration theory and Sensory Processing Disorders in children
- The process of assessment and intervention for Sensory Processing Disorders
- Information to ask the right questions to make appropriate referrals
- Common and useful accommodations and strategies
- Available resources for further understanding of Sensory Processing Disorders
