Professor M. Brinton Lykes, community-cultural psychologist at the Lynch School of Education and Associate Director of the Center for Human Rights and International Justice joined 29 other women from 15 different countries to cross the DMZ on May 24, 2015, International Women’s Day for Peace and Disarmament. This year also marks the 70th anniversary of the separation of the two Koreas that set the stage for the world’s longest unended war and six decades of family separation for millions of Koreans more than 100,000 of whom live in the United States.

Professor Ramsay Liem, Professor Emeritus of Boston College, psychologist, filmmaker and long-time Korea activist will join Dr. Lykes to share clips of an earlier film about the war and new work about the women’s historic walk across the DMZ.

This event is co-sponsored by the BC Center for Human Rights and International Justice and the Dept. of Counseling, Developmental and Educational Psychology at the BC Lynch School of Education.
