

Financing Your Graduate Education

A graduate education is an excellent investment in your future and at the Lynch School of Education, it's an affordable investment.

Throughout your life, you will benefit from increased earning power, intellectual rewards, and the satisfaction of knowing that you're helping to make the world a better place.

The Lynch School has a deep commitment to helping you afford an excellent graduate education. Each year, the School provides some form of academic financial support to nearly 80 percent of its graduate students.

Financial support at the Lynch School comes from a variety of sources and is awarded on the basis of academic merit or financial need. Options include academic scholarships; teaching assistantships, which pay a monthly stipend; and low-interest federal loans.
