“Minors” for Connell School of Nursing students

Students in the Connell School of Nursing may minor in another subject by completing the requirements outlined in the University Catalog. Adding a minor may be done by completing a form available in the office of the undergraduate Associate Dean. The permission of the department (usually in Arts & Sciences or Education) is required. Most Arts and Sciences and School of Education minors require 18 credits of coursework.

Special minors for CSON students may be added to your program of study by meeting with the undergraduate Associate Dean. Options include:

1. CSON Hispanic Studies minor: may be earned by completing any six 3-credit courses (18 credits beginning with the class of 2014) in Spanish or Hispanic Studies approved by the undergraduate Associate Dean. These may include courses taken in the language of Spanish while studying abroad, or Community Health Nursing Clinical taken in Nicaragua.

2. CSON Psychology minor: the minor would be awarded to CSON students who complete six 3-credit courses (18 credits beginning with the Class of 2014) in psychology. Courses should include PS 110 (Introduction to Psychology as a Natural Science) and PS111 (Introduction to Psychology as a Social Science). Students who received AP credit for PS110 and PS111 may select alternate courses. Courses that may be applied to the minor include the following (or others approved by the undergraduate associate dean):
   - PS100: Introductory Psychology (Evening College; no credit for PS100 if PS111 was taken)
   - PS011: Psychobiology of Mental Disorders
