Church Seeking a Director of Faith Formation

Harvard Unitarian Universalist Church seeks a religious educator interested in taking an innovative approach to nurturing faith formation in the 21st century. Our mid-size congregation, 30 miles west of Boston, has about 40 participants, evenly divided between children and youth. We wish to continue some form of Sunday programming and expand it with innovative programming between Sundays to better meet the needs of today’s families. The position is 7.5 units per week, or approximately 26hrs per week, salary range per UUA religious educator guidelines and experience, pension plan included, plus $1,500 for professional development.
