Research Grants: External

- 2008-2010 Child Care Resources in Low-Income Communities. (National Institute of Child Health and Human Development). Coley & Votruba-Drzal, Co-Principal Investigators. Assesses child care decisions and the implications of child care experiences for the health and well-being of low-income children and mothers using longitudinal survey, observational, and assessment data.
- 2008-2010 Bidirectional Links between Parenting Processes and Adolescent Risk Behaviors (National Institute of Child Health and Human Development). Coley, Principal Investigator. Assesses transactional and bidirectional links between parenting processes and adolescent health risk behaviors (substance use and risky sexual behaviors), employing large, longitudinal data sets.
- 2008-2009 Distinguishing Between Family Structure and Family Instability on Child and Adolescent Well-Being in Low-Income Families (National Center for Marriage Research). Bachman & Coley, Co-Principal Investigators. Assesses effects of current family structure, recent transitions, and cumulative instability on low-income children's cognitive, behavioral, and psychological well-being.
- 2006-2007 Welfare Reform and the Well-Being of Children: The Three-City Teacher Survey (Casey Foundation). Cherlin, Principal Investigator. Additional component to the Three-City Study comprised of multi-method assessments of low-income urban children's school contexts, educational experiences, and academic functioning in Boston, Chicago, and San Antonio.
- 2004-2007 Welfare Reform and the Well-Being of Children (National Institute of Child Health and Human Development). Cherlin, Principal Investigator. Longitudinal, multi-method study on the long-term effects of welfare reform on children, families, and communities in Boston, Chicago, and San Antonio. Particular focus on maternal welfare and employment transitions and child and adolescent well-being.
- 2003-2006 Fathers' Contributions to Adolescent Well-Being (W. T. Grant Foundation). Coley, Principal Investigator. Analysis of fathers' direct and indirect contributions to adolescent psychosocial and educational well-being, with a particular focus on low-income and nonresidential fathers.
- 2003-2005 Father Involvement and Child Well-Being in Poor Families (National Institute of Child Health and Human Development). Coley, Principal Investigator. Analysis of the influence of fathers' financial, human, social, and emotional capital on young children's healthy developmental trajectories in low-income families.
- 2000-2001 Comparing Mother and Father Reports of Father Involvement among Low-Income Minority Families (Health and Human Services Research Development Grant). Coley, Principal Investigator. Methodological research addressing the congruence and predictors of congruence between mother and father reports of paternal involvement in low-income households.

- 1998-2002 Welfare Reform and the Well-being of Children. (National Institute of Child Health and Human Development). Cherlin, Principal Investigator. Longitudinal, multi-method study on the effects of welfare reform on children, families, and communities in Boston, Chicago, and San Antonio.
- 1997-2002 Children, Families, and Welfare Reform: A Three-City Study (Robert Wood Johnson Foundation). Chase-Lansdale, Principal Investigator. Longitudinal, multi-method study on the effects of welfare reform on children, families, and communities in Boston, Chicago, and San Antonio. Particular focus on child development for preschool and early adolescent children.
- 1997-2001 Three-City Study of Family Economic and Social Well-Being After Welfare Reform (Joyce Foundation). Chase-Lansdale, Principal Investigator. Longitudinal, multi-method study on the effects of welfare reform on children, families, and communities in Boston, Chicago, and San Antonio. Particular focus on child care usage and quality among preschool-age children.

Research Grants: Internal

- 2008 A Cross-National Comparative Analysis of Parenting Policies (Boston College Research Incentive Grant). Coley, Principal Investigator. Cross-national comparative analysis of federal parenting policies. Review of government documents and interviews with expert informants provide data to compare and contrast parenting policies across the US, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, the UK, and Sweden.
- 2006 The Three-City Teacher Survey (Boston College Research Incentive Grant). Coley, Principal Investigator. Collection of teacher surveys and administrative records data for children from the Three-City Study. Data will provide extensive information on low-income children's school contexts and experiences, academic achievement, and psychosocial well-being.
- 2005 Qualitative Study of Adolescents Living in Rural Poverty (Boston College Research Incentive Grant). Coley, Principal Investigator. A mixed-methods study assessing how rural adolescents view the role of poverty in their lives, and how their experiences and perceptions are constrained or expanded through access to economic resources and opportunities within their family, peer, and educational networks.
- 2005 Training Better Consumers and Producers of Research: Redesign of Methodology Courses in CDEP (Boston College Teaching, Advising and Mentoring Grant). Coley, Principal Investigator. Collaborative, cross-departmental effort to enhance the methodological and statistical competencies of undergraduate, master's and doctoral students in psychology through redesigned methods courses.

- 2004 A Qualitative Study of Homeless Fathers (Boston College Research Incentive Grant). Coley, Principal Investigator. Pilot study, using intensive qualitative interviewing, of homeless fathers and homeless shelter directors concerning the experiences of homeless men with children.
- 2003 Predictive Validity of Father and Mother Reports of Father Involvement (Boston College Research Incentive Grant). Coley, Principal Investigator. Analysis comparing the reliability and predictive validity of mother and father reports of father involvement from survey data.
- 2002 Out-of-School Care, Parental Monitoring, and Neighborhood Social Control: Links with Academic and Behavioral Functioning among Low-Income Early Adolescents (Boston College Research Incentive Grant). Coley, Principal Investigator. Analysis addressing the influence of out-of-school care experiences on adolescents' longitudinal engagement in problem behaviors.
- 2001 Demographic, Psychological, and Family Determinants of Paternal Involvement in Low-Income Families (Boston College Research Incentive Grant). Coley, Principal Investigator. Analysis addressing determinants of father involvement among a low-income, minority sample of families with preschool children.
- 1994 Child Functioning in Single-Parent Families (Rackham Summer Partnership Research Grant, University of Michigan). Coley, Principal Investigator. Dissertation research on father involvement, maternal social support, and child well-being in urban single-parent families.
