Welcome to the 2015 Boston College Education & Social Services Career Fair!

HOW TO WORK THE FAIR

1. Make a list of the employers you would most like to speak with.
2. Read those employers’ profiles in this program (and read some of their literature or look at their websites) – write down any questions you would like to ask.
3. Rehearse an introduction that includes your name, degree and major, your goals (e.g. “a job teaching in a 3rd, 4th, or 5th grade classroom in a progressive charter school”), and your strengths as a teacher or counselor or simply as a person who enjoys working with children or adults.
4. Have conversations!
5. Get business cards or names, titles and email addresses, follow up with thank you notes.

NEED ASSISTANCE or ADVICE? Come speak with us at the Career Center Help Table.

Consider these potential employers

Social service organizations

- Covers a wide range of organizations, including community mental health, drug and alcohol rehabilitation, youth services and mentoring, prisons, services for people with disabilities, and much more.
- Many organizations have opportunities both for Masters-level candidates (Mental Health Counseling, Social Work) and graduating seniors.
- For job listings, visit www.bc.edu/eaglelink - social work students see www.bc.edu/schools/gssw/careers/resources.html
- Network with alumni in the Boston College Career Community – bit.ly/bccareerlinkedin
- Attend the MA Mental Health Counselors Association Job and Career Fair (Friday May 8, 2015) - many of these employers have jobs for graduating seniors, too.

Charter schools

- Mission-driven - attract teachers and administrators who believe in that vision.
- Potential opportunities to set the goals of the school, plan its operation, create the curriculum.
- Often offer strong mentoring and professional development of new teachers.
- Salary and benefits are often comparable with the local district.

Independent schools

- You have a great deal of autonomy in designing and teaching curriculum.
- You are part of a community that values subject expertise, teaching, and learning.
- Classes are generally small; you are involved in the full life and development of your students.
- FULL GUIDE in EagleLink – www.bc.edu/eaglelink - Document Library, search on “Lynch”

Catholic schools

- Opportunity to teach and model a religious- and values-centered approach to life.
- Classes frequently small; generally fewer discipline problems.
- Parental cooperation and involvement is high.

The Home for Little Wanderers is a nationally renowned, private, non-profit child and family service agency providing services to thousands of children and families each year through 20 programs that are measurably changing lives. The mission of The Home is to ensure the healthy emotional, mental, and social development of children at risk, their families, and communities. We do this through an integrated system of prevention, advocacy, research, and direct care services.

Lawrence Public Schools believes that the fundamental unit of change in education reform is the school, not the district.

In 2011, we were designated as being chronically underperforming. The Commissioner of Education appointed a receiver, who has the power of both the superintendent and the school committee. The receiver was charged with meaningfully improving—and sustaining—academic achievement in his schools.

While the receiver could have imposed more top-down and uniform policies to manage schools, instead, he chose a different path. In 2012, we began a turnaround in which educators used increased autonomy to lead their schools to success. The central office worked in service of the schools, rather than in management of the schools. That change paved the way for pro...

Rosie's Place

Since 1974 poor and homeless women have found an oasis of hope and nourishment at Rosie’s Place. The mission of Rosie’s Place is to help women maintain their dignity, seek opportunity and find security in their lives.

Many of the women we assist are working and in housing but simply can’t make ends meet. Some are newly homeless, while others women have been living on the streets for years. We serve women as young as 18 and as old as 80. Approximately one-third of our guests have children. Rosie’s Place serves guests from a wide variety of ethnic groups, with the majority being African American, Hispanic, Haitian, or White. Some of our guests are living with HIV/AIDS or have hidden disabilities such as addiction or mental illnesses that prevent them from effectively integrating.

Uncommon Schools starts and manages outstanding urban charter public schools that close the achievement gap and prepare low-income students to graduate from college. At Uncommon Schools, our classrooms are named after colleges because that's where our students are headed. We are a nonprofit network of public charter schools in New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts. Our 42 college prep schools consistently rank among the highest-performing in their home states for three reasons:

• We know all students have what it takes to go to college. We are fiercely committed to cultivating the intellectual curiosity and grit that will spur their success in the classroom and in their communities.

• We create and constantly fine-tune our systems to help teachers teach and students learn....
