Both offshoring and exchange rates are buzzwords nowadays, each often blamed for the loss of U.S. jobs. But there is a close connection between exchange rates and offshoring. This talk will illustrate how they interact, the economic mechanism of their interactions, and why new thinking about both of them is needed.