The Intern-in-Service program at the Catholic Student Center at Washington University is a volunteer campus ministry initiative geared towards recent college graduates who seek not only to grow personally, professionally and spiritually, but also to form students intellectually, morally, socially, and spiritually.

By helping with programming, Masses, and various responsibilities at the CSC, interns will welcome all students and empower student leaders wherever possible. Interns provide a hospitable presence--both on campus and at the CSC--and help students connect life and faith in tangible ways. In addition to serving the intern program includes spiritual direction, formation with our pastoral team, and one-on-one supervision, so that the interns can discern the next step in their life journey and learn how to become active participants in parish life and moral leaders in their careers. Interns will live in community with each other and are compensated with food and housing, as well as a small stipend to cover gas, cell phone, personal expenses, and health insurance.
