Welcome to Boston College

Established in 1863, Boston College is one of the oldest and most prestigious Jesuit, Catholic universities in the U.S. Ranked highly among national universities by U.S. News and World Report, Boston College has consistently exhibited a strong dedication to academic excellence. With approximately 9,400 undergraduate and 4,700 graduate students, the University offers programs in eight colleges, including the Morrissey College of Arts and Sciences, the Carroll School of Management, the Lynch School of Education, the Connell School of Nursing, the Graduate School of Social Work, the School of Theology and Ministry, Boston College Law School, and Woods College of Advanced Studies.
Welcome to Boston College

Established in 1855, Boston College is one of the oldest and most prestigious Jesuit, Catholic universities in the U.S. Ranked highly among national universities by U.S. News and World Report, Boston College has consistently exhibited a strong dedication to academic excellence. With approximately 9,400 undergraduate and 4,700 graduate students, the University offers programs in eight colleges, including the Morrissey College of Arts and Sciences, the Carroll School of Management, the Lynch School of Education, the Connell School of Nursing, the Graduate School of Social Work, the School of Theology and Ministry, Boston College Law School, and Woods College of Advanced Studies.

Office of International Programs
Hovey House
140 Commonwealth Avenue
Chestnut Hill, MA 02467-3926 www.bc.edu/international
Boston lies on the edge of Boston, a city with over 1.2 million residents and Boston College is located just on the edge of Boston, a city which offers a unique blend of past, present, and future. Known as “The Heights,” BC’s beautiful 175-acre main campus is comprised of stunning Gothic architecture and has both on-campus athletic facilities, the McMullen Museum, and the campus clubs and organizations and to take advantage of the many amenities. The University boasts eight research libraries with 2.7 million volumes. BC is a member of the Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC), a collegiate athletic league with member institutions from all over the world. BC has exchange agreements with over 60 universities worldwide. Exchange students must be nominated by their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs. Applicants must be in good academic standing at their home university and must have English proficiency. International students may take graduate-level courses at the BC Law School and School of Theology and Ministry. Qualified students may take graduate-level courses at the BC Law School and School of Theology and Ministry. Qualified students may take graduate-level courses at the BC Law School and School of Theology and Ministry. While BC makes every effort to place students in their choice of courses, no guarantee can be made that they will be enrolled in their first-choice classes. Exchange students must plan to take classes on a variety of subjects. In keeping with the BC model of a liberal arts education, students generally take one or two courses per term. Most subject areas are open to all students. Students pay their home university tuition for the semester or year they spend at BC. Orientation and Academic Support At exchange students are required to go through orientations, which cover important aspects of BC and the US university system. Additionally, students may request a faculty advisor for consultation with course selection and general academic advising. Housing Due to the limited space on campus housing is not guaranteed. Most exchange students reside in off-campus accommodations. An exchange student housing lottery is held in the fall for next year students and in October for spring students. Off-Campus Housing Boston offers a wide variety of off-campus housing options, including housing on campus open only to Boston College students. Application Procedure Students should contact the study abroad office at their home university about application procedures. Nominated students will receive instructions to the online application. Complete applications must be submitted by the deadlines posted on the OIP website. For more detailed information, visit the OIP website at: www.bc.edu/oip. Resources in and around Boston

Boston College (BC) is located just on the edge of Boston, a city with over 1.2 million residents and Boston College is located just on the edge of Boston, a city which offers a unique blend of past, present, and future. Known as “The Heights,” BC’s beautiful 175-acre main campus is comprised of stunning Gothic architecture and has both on-campus athletic facilities, the McMullen Museum, and the campus clubs and organizations and to take advantage of the many amenities. Boston is a center for many large companies in the financial services sector and the people in the greater metropolitan area, Boston is home to many large companies in the financial services sector and the higher education institutions in the U.S., and is a center for research, education, and technology. Known as “The Heights,” BC’s beautiful 175-acre main campus is comprised of stunning Gothic architecture and has both on-campus athletic facilities, the McMullen Museum, and the campus clubs and organizations and to take advantage of the many amenities. Boston is a center for many large companies in the financial services sector and the people in the greater metropolitan area, Boston is home to many large companies in the financial services sector and the higher education institutions in the U.S., and is a center for research, education, and technology.
Location
Boston College (BC) is located just on the edge of Boston, a city that offers a cornucopia of past, present, and future. Boston is the site of major events which led to the American Revolution. The city juxtaposes modern office buildings with 17th and 18th century architecture, and its distinct neighborhoods, such as Beacon Hill, Back Bay, and the North End, can easily be explored on foot. With almost 4.6 million people in the greater metropolitan area, Boston is home to many large companies in the financial services sector and the high-tech industry. The city boasts the greatest concentration of higher education institutions in U.S., and is a center for research, resources, and technology.

Campus Life
Known as “The Heights,” BC is a 175-acre campus comprised of Swan Pond and two halls, as well as a surfeit of athletic facilities. The University boasts eight research libraries with 2.7 million volumes. BC is a member of the Atlantic Coast Conference (ACC), a collegiate athletic league with member universities competing in a variety of top-level sports. Student athletes can enjoy the spirit and enthusiasm that come from cheering along with their fellow “Eagles.” Exchange students are encouraged to be present in the many campus clubs and organizations and take advantage of the on-campus athletic facilities, the McElrory Recreation, and the Paladin Theatre Arts Center.

While BC makes every effort to place students in their first choice courses, no guarantee can be made that they will be enrolled in their first choice classes. Exchange students must plan to take classes in one of several subject areas. In keeping with BC’s model of a liberal arts education, students generally take one or two classes in three major fields, allowing them to explore several subjects. Students pay the same university tuition for the semester they are present at BC.

Orientation and Academic Support
All exchange students are required to go through a training session, which covers important aspects of BC and the US university system. Additionally, students may request a student advisor for assistance with course selection and general academic advising.

International Community
BC has long been a nexus of international activity each year. The University sends about 1,000 students abroad, with approximately 10 percent of undergraduate students participating before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

International Exchange Program
BC has long been a nexus of international activity each year. The University sends about 1,000 students abroad, with approximately 10 percent of undergraduate students participating before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

International Exchange agreements with over 200 universities worldwide. Exchange students must be nominated by their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs (OIP). The University reserves the right to screen all on-campus housing applications before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

Application Procedure
Students should contact the study abroad office at their home university about application procedures. Nominated students will receive instructions to the online application. Complete applications must be submitted by the deadlines posted on the OIP website. For more detailed information, visit the OIP website at

International Programs. Applicants must be in good academic standing at their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs (OIP). The University reserves the right to screen all on-campus housing applications before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

Due to the limited space, on-campus housing is not guaranteed. Most exchange students reside in off-campus accommodations. While BC has long been a nexus of international activity each year. The University sends about 1,000 students abroad, with approximately 10 percent of undergraduate students participating before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. An exchange student housing lottery is held to select available rooms for BC’s fall semester. Students pay home university tuition for the semester they are present at BC.

Housing

Activities
BC offers a variety of extracurricular activities including sports, social and recreational clubs, and volunteer opportunities. Exchange students are encouraged to participate in the annual Study Abroad Fair, pre-departure orientations, and study abroad information sessions designed for BC study abroad students. A number of other social activities are organized for exchange students.

International Programs. Applicants must be in good academic standing at their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs (OIP). The University reserves the right to screen all on-campus housing applications before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

Application Procedure
Students should contact the study abroad office at their home university about application procedures. Nominated students will receive instructions to the online application. Complete applications must be submitted by the deadlines posted on the OIP website. For more detailed information, visit the OIP website at

International Exchange Program
BC has long been a nexus of international activity each year. The University sends about 1,000 students abroad, with approximately 10 percent of undergraduate students participating before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

International Programs. Applicants must be in good academic standing at their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs (OIP). The University reserves the right to screen all on-campus housing applications before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

Application Procedure
Students should contact the study abroad office at their home university about application procedures. Nominated students will receive instructions to the online application. Complete applications must be submitted by the deadlines posted on the OIP website. For more detailed information, visit the OIP website at

International Exchange Program
BC has long been a nexus of international activity each year. The University sends about 1,000 students abroad, with approximately 10 percent of undergraduate students participating before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

International Programs. Applicants must be in good academic standing at their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs (OIP). The University reserves the right to screen all on-campus housing applications before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

Application Procedure
Students should contact the study abroad office at their home university about application procedures. Nominated students will receive instructions to the online application. Complete applications must be submitted by the deadlines posted on the OIP website. For more detailed information, visit the OIP website at

International Programs. Applicants must be in good academic standing at their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs (OIP). The University reserves the right to screen all on-campus housing applications before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

Application Procedure
Students should contact the study abroad office at their home university about application procedures. Nominated students will receive instructions to the online application. Complete applications must be submitted by the deadlines posted on the OIP website. For more detailed information, visit the OIP website at

International Programs. Applicants must be in good academic standing at their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs (OIP). The University reserves the right to screen all on-campus housing applications before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

Application Procedure
Students should contact the study abroad office at their home university about application procedures. Nominated students will receive instructions to the online application. Complete applications must be submitted by the deadlines posted on the OIP website. For more detailed information, visit the OIP website at

International Programs. Applicants must be in good academic standing at their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs (OIP). The University reserves the right to screen all on-campus housing applications before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

Application Procedure
Students should contact the study abroad office at their home university about application procedures. Nominated students will receive instructions to the online application. Complete applications must be submitted by the deadlines posted on the OIP website. For more detailed information, visit the OIP website at

International Programs. Applicants must be in good academic standing at their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs (OIP). The University reserves the right to screen all on-campus housing applications before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

Application Procedure
Students should contact the study abroad office at their home university about application procedures. Nominated students will receive instructions to the online application. Complete applications must be submitted by the deadlines posted on the OIP website. For more detailed information, visit the OIP website at

International Programs. Applicants must be in good academic standing at their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs (OIP). The University reserves the right to screen all on-campus housing applications before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

Application Procedure
Students should contact the study abroad office at their home university about application procedures. Nominated students will receive instructions to the online application. Complete applications must be submitted by the deadlines posted on the OIP website. For more detailed information, visit the OIP website at

International Programs. Applicants must be in good academic standing at their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs (OIP). The University reserves the right to screen all on-campus housing applications before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.

Application Procedure
Students should contact the study abroad office at their home university about application procedures. Nominated students will receive instructions to the online application. Complete applications must be submitted by the deadlines posted on the OIP website. For more detailed information, visit the OIP website at

International Programs. Applicants must be in good academic standing at their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs (OIP). The University reserves the right to screen all on-campus housing applications before graduation, and hosts more than 500 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Therefore, BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all the University has to offer.
of higher education institutions in the U.S., and is a center for high-tech industry. The city boasts the greatest concentration of many large companies in the financial services sector and the people in the greater metropolitan area. Boston is home to End, can easily be explored on foot. With almost 4.6 million neighborhoods, such as Beacon Hill, Back Bay, and the North Revolution. The city juxtaposes modern office buildings Boston was the site of major events which led to the American Founded in 1630 by Puritans seeking religious freedom, city which offers a unique blend of past, present, and future. Boston College (BC) is located just on the edge of Boston, a location

International Community

BC has long been a nexus of international activity each year the University sends about 2,500 students abroad, with approximately 750 of its undergraduate students participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University hosts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students who are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all University has to offer.

International Exchange Program

BC has exchange agreements with over 80 universities worldwide. Exchange students must be nominated by their home university before applying through the Office of International Programs. Accepted students take classes directly alongside their US counterparts and also courses that their home university considers equivalent. International students who are native English speakers must demonstrate a high level of English proficiency. Accepted students may take classes directly alongside their US counterparts and also courses that their home university considers equivalent. International students who are native English speakers must demonstrate a high level of English proficiency.

International Programs

International programs are designed for exchange students. Additionally, students may request a faculty advisor for assistance with course selection and general academic advising. Program Application

Students should contact the study abroad office of their home university about application procedures. Nominated students will receive instructions to the online application. Complete applications must be submitted by the deadlines posted on the OIP website.

For more detailed information, visit the OIP website at www.bc.edu/international

Application Procedures

International students are encouraged to participate in all that the University has to offer. International students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all University has to offer. Boston College (BC) is located just on the edge of Boston, a city which offers a unique blend of past, present, and future.

Boston College Departments and Areas of Study

- Accounting
- Applied Psychology & Human Development
- Art History & Fine Arts
- Biology
- Business Law & Society
- Computer Science
- Economics
- Education
- English
- Environmental Studies
- Finance
- Foreign Languages & Literatures
- French
- German Studies
- History
- International Studies
- Latin
- Legal Studies
- Management & Leadership
- Management & Leadership
- Marketing & Leadership
- Political Science
- Psychology
- Religious Studies
- Sociology
- Spanish
- Spanish & Portuguese
- Spanish & Portuguese
- Theater
- Theology

Housing

Due to the limited space, on-campus housing is not guaranteed. Most exchange students reside in off-campus accommodations. Students are encouraged to search for off-campus housing as soon as possible. An exchange student housing office is held in the available on-campus rooms for fall semester up to 20 days prior to the start of the fall semester. Off-campus housing is available near Boston.

Activities

BC offers a variety of extracurricular activities including sports, social and recreational clubs, and volunteer opportunities. Exchange students are encouraged to participate in the annual Study Abroad Fair, pre-departure orientations, and study abroad information sessions designed for BC study abroad students. A number of other social activities are organized for exchange students.

International Community

International community activities include social events, sports, club activities, and study abroad information sessions. Exchange students are encouraged to participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Programs

International programs are designed for exchange students. Additionally, students may request a faculty advisor for assistance with course selection and general academic advising. Program Application

Students should contact the study abroad office of their home university about application procedures. Nominated students will receive instructions to the online application. Complete applications must be submitted by the deadlines posted on the OIP website.

For more detailed information, visit the OIP website at www.bc.edu/international

Application Procedures

International students are encouraged to participate in all that the University has to offer. International students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all University has to offer. Boston College (BC) is located just on the edge of Boston, a city which offers a unique blend of past, present, and future.

Boston College Departments and Areas of Study

- Accounting
- Applied Psychology & Human Development
- Art History & Fine Arts
- Biology
- Business Law & Society
- Computer Science
- Economics
- Education
- English
- Environmental Studies
- Finance
- Foreign Languages & Literatures
- French
- German Studies
- History
- International Studies
- Latin
- Legal Studies
- Management & Leadership
- Management & Leadership
- Marketing & Leadership
- Political Science
- Psychology
- Religious Studies
- Sociology
- Spanish
- Spanish & Portuguese
- Spanish & Portuguese
- Theater
- Theology

Housing

Due to the limited space, on-campus housing is not guaranteed. Most exchange students reside in off-campus accommodations. Students are encouraged to search for off-campus housing as soon as possible. An exchange student housing office is held in the available on-campus rooms for fall semester up to 20 days prior to the start of the fall semester. Off-campus housing is available near Boston.

Activities

BC offers a variety of extracurricular activities including sports, social and recreational clubs, and volunteer opportunities. Exchange students are encouraged to participate in the annual Study Abroad Fair, pre-departure orientations, and study abroad information sessions designed for BC study abroad students. A number of other social activities are organized for exchange students.

International Community

International community activities include social events, sports, club activities, and study abroad information sessions. Exchange students are encouraged to participate in all that the University has to offer. International students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all University has to offer. Boston College (BC) is located just on the edge of Boston, a city which offers a unique blend of past, present, and future.

Boston College Departments and Areas of Study

- Accounting
- Applied Psychology & Human Development
- Art History & Fine Arts
- Biology
- Business Law & Society
- Computer Science
- Economics
- Education
- English
- Environmental Studies
- Finance
- Foreign Languages & Literatures
- French
- German Studies
- History
- International Studies
- Latin
- Legal Studies
- Management & Leadership
- Management & Leadership
- Marketing & Leadership
- Political Science
- Psychology
- Religious Studies
- Sociology
- Spanish
- Spanish & Portuguese
- Spanish & Portuguese
- Theater
- Theology

Housing

Due to the limited space, on-campus housing is not guaranteed. Most exchange students reside in off-campus accommodations. Students are encouraged to search for off-campus housing as soon as possible. An exchange student housing office is held in the available on-campus rooms for fall semester up to 20 days prior to the start of the fall semester. Off-campus housing is available near Boston.

Activities

BC offers a variety of extracurricular activities including sports, social and recreational clubs, and volunteer opportunities. Exchange students are encouraged to participate in the annual Study Abroad Fair, pre-departure orientations, and study abroad information sessions designed for BC study abroad students. A number of other social activities are organized for exchange students.

International Community

International community activities include social events, sports, club activities, and study abroad information sessions. Exchange students are encouraged to participate in all that the University has to offer. International students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all University has to offer. Boston College (BC) is located just on the edge of Boston, a city which offers a unique blend of past, present, and future.

Boston College Departments and Areas of Study

- Accounting
- Applied Psychology & Human Development
- Art History & Fine Arts
- Biology
- Business Law & Society
- Computer Science
- Economics
- Education
- English
- Environmental Studies
- Finance
- Foreign Languages & Literatures
- French
- German Studies
- History
- International Studies
- Latin
- Legal Studies
- Management & Leadership
- Management & Leadership
- Marketing & Leadership
- Political Science
- Psychology
- Religious Studies
- Sociology
- Spanish
- Spanish & Portuguese
- Spanish & Portuguese
- Theater
- Theology

Housing

Due to the limited space, on-campus housing is not guaranteed. Most exchange students reside in off-campus accommodations. Students are encouraged to search for off-campus housing as soon as possible. An exchange student housing office is held in the available on-campus rooms for fall semester up to 20 days prior to the start of the fall semester. Off-campus housing is available near Boston.

Activities

BC offers a variety of extracurricular activities including sports, social and recreational clubs, and volunteer opportunities. Exchange students are encouraged to participate in the annual Study Abroad Fair, pre-departure orientations, and study abroad information sessions designed for BC study abroad students. A number of other social activities are organized for exchange students.

International Community

International community activities include social events, sports, club activities, and study abroad information sessions. Exchange students are encouraged to participate in all that the University has to offer. International students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all University has to offer. Boston College (BC) is located just on the edge of Boston, a city which offers a unique blend of past, present, and future.

Boston College Departments and Areas of Study

- Accounting
- Applied Psychology & Human Development
- Art History & Fine Arts
- Biology
- Business Law & Society
- Computer Science
- Economics
- Education
- English
- Environmental Studies
- Finance
- Foreign Languages & Literatures
- French
- German Studies
- History
- International Studies
- Latin
- Legal Studies
- Management & Leadership
- Management & Leadership
- Marketing & Leadership
- Political Science
- Psychology
- Religious Studies
- Sociology
- Spanish
- Spanish & Portuguese
- Spanish & Portuguese
- Theater
- Theology

Housing

Due to the limited space, on-campus housing is not guaranteed. Most exchange students reside in off-campus accommodations. Students are encouraged to search for off-campus housing as soon as possible. An exchange student housing office is held in the available on-campus rooms for fall semester up to 20 days prior to the start of the fall semester. Off-campus housing is available near Boston.

Activities

BC offers a variety of extracurricular activities including sports, social and recreational clubs, and volunteer opportunities. Exchange students are encouraged to participate in the annual Study Abroad Fair, pre-departure orientations, and study abroad information sessions designed for BC study abroad students. A number of other social activities are organized for exchange students.

International Community

International community activities include social events, sports, club activities, and study abroad information sessions. Exchange students are encouraged to participate in all that the University has to offer. International students are welcome...
Boston College (BC) located just on the edge of Boston, a city which offers a campus blend of past, present, and future. The city boasts the greatest concentration of higher education institutions in the U.S., and is a center for high-tech industry. The city boasts the greatest concentration of higher education institutions in the U.S., and is a center for research, medicine, and technology.

Boston was the site of major events which led to the American Revolution. The city juxtaposes modern office buildings with 17th and 18th century architecture, and its distinct neighborhoods, such as Beacon Hill, Back Bay, and the North End, can easily be explored on foot. With almost 4 million people in the greater metropolitan area, Boston is home to many large companies in the financial services sector and the city which offers a unique blend of past, present, and future.

Founded in 1630 by Puritans seeking religious freedom, BC has grown into a multicultural campus that offers a broad range of courses in the arts and sciences, business, education, and law. With permission, accepted students may take classes alongside their US counterparts at other BC schools and choose courses from the regular BC offerings in the arts and sciences. Students pay their home university tuition for the courses in their major, with the rest being taken in other subjects. Students pay their home university tuition for the courses, no guarantee can be made that they will be enrolled in their first-choice classes. Exchange students must plan to take classes on a variety of subjects. Students in the Accel Program of a liberal arts education, students generally take one or two classes in three major fields, selecting three classes in major subjects. Students pay their home university tuition for the semester in which they are enrolled at BC.

Orientation and Academic Support
At exchange students are required to go through orientations, which covers important aspects of BC and the study abroad experience. Exchange students are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer. They are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students. Within this community, exchange students are hosted more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. Participating before graduation, and hosts more than 200 international students. An exchange student housing lottery is organized for exchange students. Most exchange students reside in off-campus accommodations. Housing Services assists exchange students in finding suitable off-campus housing upon arrival in Boston.

Location
Boston College (BC) is located just on the edge of Boston, a city which offers a campus blend of past, present, and future. The city boasts the greatest concentration of higher education institutions in the U.S., and is a center for research, medicine, and technology.

Campus Life
Known as “The Heights,” BC’s main campus is comprised of arcing Gothic architecture and has built a reputation as one of the top 25 liberal arts universities. The University boasts eight research libraries and the John F. Kennedy Library, home to the Institute for Kennedy Studies. BC is a collegiate athletic member with more than 170 varsity sports competing in a variety of top level sports. BC students can enjoy the sport and entertainment that come from playing games and attending for the “Height.” Exchange students are encouraged to be involved in the many campus clubs and organizations and to take advantage of the on-campus and off-campus cultural, academic, and social events.

International Exchange Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.

International Program
BC has long been a leader of international activity back home. The University sends about 2,000 students abroad with permission each year on a variety of undergraduate studies, participating before graduation, and hosts more than 2,000 international students. Additionally, the University boasts more than 2,000 international staff, faculty, and students. BC students are welcomed and supported by BC faculty, staff, and students, and are encouraged to fully participate in all that the University has to offer.
Welcome to Boston College

Established in 1855, Boston College is one of the oldest and most prestigious Jesuit, Catholic universities in the U.S. Ranked highly among national universities by U.S. News and World Report, Boston College has consistently exhibited a strong dedication to academic excellence. With approximately 9,400 undergraduate and 4,700 graduate students, the University offers programs in eight colleges, including the Morrissey College of Arts and Sciences, the Carroll School of Management, the Lynch School of Education, the Connell School of Nursing, the Graduate School of Social Work, the School of Theology and Ministry, Boston College Law School, and Woods College of Advanced Studies.
Welcome to Boston College

Established in 1859, Boston College is one of the oldest and most prestigious Jesuit, Catholic universities in the U.S. Ranked highly among national universities by U.S. News and World Report, Boston College has consistently exhibited a strong dedication to academic excellence. With approximately 9,400 undergraduate and 4,700 graduate students, the University offers programs in eight colleges, including the Morrissey College of Arts and Sciences, the Carroll School of Management, the Lynch School of Education, the Connell School of Nursing, the Graduate School of Social Work, the School of Theology and Ministry, Boston College Law School, and Woods College of Advanced Studies.