Apply for the Global Public Health and the Common Good Minor
Information session scheduled for February 1, 2022. This will kick off the 2022 Application cycle for the Global Public Health and the Common Good Minor. Information is available on CSOM Advising Site (tinyurl.com/csomadvisingsite). Any students interested in applying to become part of the GPHCG Minor should visit our Academic Advising Google Site (tinyurl.com/csomadvisingsite) to learn more about the Minor and the requirements. Most students apply during their sophomore year; however, we do accept applications from all class years. These students will be required to provide information that demonstrates a clear path as to how they will complete the Minor requirements in their remaining time at Boston College.

For the 2022-23 academic year, the Minor is open to all students, including those in non-science disciplines. Students entering this program will take a range of courses to develop a strong understanding of global health and the role of the healthcare system in society. The Minor requires the completion of 21 credits, which can be earned through a combination of coursework and fieldwork. Students will have the opportunity to engage with professionals in the field, participate in service learning projects, and conduct research on global health issues. This Minor is designed to help students develop their knowledge and skills through intentional exposure to relevant theoretical frameworks, real-world experiences, and meaningful and structured interactions and discussions with diverse groups of people, including healthcare providers, public health officials, community leaders, and people from different cultural backgrounds.

For more information, please visit the CSOM Advising Site (tinyurl.com/csomadvisingsite) or contact Prof Chazen, adjunct professor in Health Care Administration, at adrienne.nussbaum@bc.edu. This email address is maintained by the City of Boston for use by Boston College.

LEADERSHIP THIS WEEK

For Undergrad Conference
Are you a LGBTQ+ student interested in leadership? Build your career with Out for Undergrad (formerly known as GLBT+ Network)! Out for Undergrad is a student-led organization that fosters a welcoming and inclusive environment for LGBTQ+ students. Attend the conference to meet other LGBTQ+ students, learn about the resources available on campus, and network with professionals in the field of LGBTQ+ advocacy. The conference will feature workshops on leadership, networking, and professional development. These workshops will provide students with practical skills and knowledge to help them succeed in their future careers.

Apply for the 2022-23 Academic year! Applications are due on November 15, 2022. Information about the conference and application can be found on the Out for Undergrad website (tinyurl.com/outforundergrad).
