Start@Shea is the student executive team of Edmund H. Shea Jr. Center for Entrepreneurship at Boston College that inspires and engages students to make their ideas happen. They will share how they discovered their ideas. They will also discuss and teach you how to take great ideas and use them to get funding to turn them into a product or service that the market wants. There will be a Q&A on this topic.

Join notable BC alumni in a conversation on careers in marketing as they answer questions on how to get into the field, what the different roles look like, and the best aspects of working in marketing. The panel will be followed by a Q&A.

Learn about the Boston College Investment Club (BCIC) at its first general meeting. BCIC is a student group for those interested in the venture capital and private equity industries. The club provides students with networking opportunities with professionals in the industry and students from top business schools from around the country. Come learn about all that we have planned for this semester, meet our new board, and get involved in the Accounting Academy, Venture Capital and Private Equity industries.
