

BOSTON COLLEGE LAW SCHOOL

Dear Admitted Student,

Congratulations on your admission to Boston College Law School. We look forward to meeting you in the fall.

Over the years we have learned that students with disabilities may need special accommodations to assist them in succeeding in the study of law. Our goal is to identify these students early on, document the disability, determine what accommodations are necessary and provide those accommodations in a timely manner. If you are a student who may require special accommodations or who has received such accommodations in the past please complete the attached questionnaire, include any relevant documentation, and return the materials to the address below as soon as possible.

Although there are no set deadlines for providing us with this information, the sooner we receive the information, the sooner we are able to make any necessary plans, particularly before classes begin. If you and/or your treating health professional determine the need for accommodations at any time during your law school tenure, please speak with me.

Please be assured that your privacy will be protected and that the records pertaining to your disability will be kept separate from your other academic records. The only persons who will review these records are the personnel in the Dean for Students Office and the specialists designated by Boston College Law School to oversee the provision of services to students with disabilities. If you have any questions about the services available or need more information, call Academic Services at (617) 552-2527 or e-mail me directly at maris.abbene@bc.edu.

Please return the completed questionnaire to:

Boston College Law School
Dean for Students Office
885 Centre Street
Newton, MA 02459

Congratulations again on your admission. We very much look forward to your arrival.

Best wishes,

Maris L. Abbene
Associate Dean
