PRESIDENT’S MESSAGE

Today as I write it is the very first day of the year 2010. If I were younger I would report to you all the things I did last night. But things being what they are I can tell you what I did not do. I did not participate in one of those dreadful parties that I sometime attended in my salad days. I did not wear a silly cone shaped hat nor did I bother people with a noisemaker. In fact I did not even make it until midnight. But I am quite pleased with myself for having made it this far. And since you are now reading this, you too are among those who have reason to be pleased with themselves. Congratulations to us all!! I hope that you had a truly merry Christmas together with those you love and that the coming year will be a happy and healthy one for you.

I am pleased to report to you that we have made our first invitations to two absolutely outstanding members of the Boston College community to become honorary members of ARF. Both Fr. Monan and Peg Dwyer have honored us by accepting membership and I hope they will find it possible to join our activities as their schedules permit.

During the first semester three exceptional presentations were made during our monthly program meetings. In September Tom O’Connor discussed a book of essays dealing with Boston’s ethnic, political, and religious history. Given his own outstanding work in this same field it was very appropriate that the volume was written in Tom’s honor.

In October Dr. Joyce Pucin described an audiovisual presentation describing an experience provided to students preparing to be nurse practitioners. In Guatemala they were exposed to the health needs - particularly for those in poverty – that exist in an underdeveloped country. It was eye opening for those students and for those of us who heard her talk.

In November we heard from Richard Jefferson, Executive Director for Institutional Diversity, Office for Institutional Diversity. He discussed Boston College’s mechanisms for insuring diversity throughout the school. The institutional structure proved to be quite elaborate and in most ways seemed successful in insuring opportunity for all. The number of questions by our members indicated great interest in the topic.

Elsewhere in this newsletter you will find the programs that will be presented in the second semester. The programs have all been selected by the Executive Committee. However we would like to hear from you. Please communicate to me or to any of our officers, the topics you would like have presented in one of our monthly meetings. Along with a topic it would be helpful if you identify a speaker from our community who could present it.

You might be aware that Fr. Jim Skehan served for many years as the liaison between our association and the Jesuit community. We have been without direct contact now for some years since Jim’s health does not allow him to continue in that role. We have missed him and his help. However we are truly fortunate that Fr. Joe Duffy has agreed to assume this responsibility. In addition to Jesuit matters he now meets with the Executive Committee providing his wisdom in all matters under discussion.

Recently it has been brought to my attention that at some schools retired faculty have offered to teach a course without compensation. It would be a way of contributing to the university. I know that some of you continue some teaching responsibilities WITH compensation. So this does not apply to you. But for others I would like to know whether you would be willing to teach a single pro bono course and what that course would be. Of course I do not know whether our departments (or perhaps the Woods CAS) would be interested in our offering. Obviously this would be decided on a case by case basis. If you have any interest in this please get in touch with me. We will have to figure out how to make it happen.

I guess this is all for now. I have put off snow shoveling as long as I can. Assuming I survive I look forward to seeing you at our future meetings.

Norm Berkowitz
President

Rebecca Valette has published the results of her recent research into the history of Navajo art in an article entitled “Yah-nah-pah’s ‘Ceremonial’ Weavings,” in the August 2009 issue of the British magazine
HALI: Carpet, Textile
& Islamic Art

Rebecca Valette and her husband Jean-Paul have been honored with an award for their humanitarian work by the Saint Boniface
Haiti Foundation (SBHHF) which provides health care to the poor of Haiti in the rural area of Fond des Blancks.

Rebecca and Jean-Paul Valette have introduced French students to the history and artistry of the Haitian people since 1975, and became aware of the work of the Saint Boniface Haiti Foundation through the sermons of Boston College Law School Associate Professor Francis Herrmann, SJ, who has served on the foundation's board for six years. "The Valettes have made a crucial difference to hundreds of Haitian families who now have a bright future, where before they had no chance," according to Fr. Herrmann. "They began supporting the construction of sturdy houses for people who had lived in tiny shacks with mud floors and leaky palm roofs," he said. "Rebecca and Jean-Paul then personally traveled to Haiti, bringing with them their granddaughter Zoe, to experience first-hand both the need and the courage of the Haitian people.
As soon as the Valettes saw the many hundreds of children around the village who dream of going to school but cannot afford to," Fr. Herrmann added, they “began supporting educational projects that have transformed poor and illiterate youngsters into proud, enthusiastic students.

John Mahoney continues to be a Reader on the J. Robert Barth, S.J. Poetry Reading Series sponsored by the Burns Library. Four CDs-The Poetry of Faith, Freedom: America’s Literary Voices, The Poetry of Ireland (read to our members at one of the ARF programs), and Sonnets of Shakespeare.

He is currently working on a fifth CD-The Romantic Voice Poems of Blake, Wordsworth, Coleridge, and Keats.

John was a conference participant at the 15th Biennial Meeting of the International Society for the Study of Human Ideas of Ultimate Reality and Meaning at the University of Toronto in August. He delivered a Research Session Paper on “William Wordsworth Poetry and Religious Practice”.

Ronna E. Krozy presented “Preparing Nurses for Global Health through Service/Learning Immersion Experiences” at Nursing Grand Rounds as part of Latino Heritage Month at Children’s Hospital Boston.

Marjory Gordon was named a “Living Legend” by the American Academy of Nursing at its annual meeting in Atlanta in November. She also was honored by Connell School colleagues at a reception in the Yawkey Center’s Murray Conference Room.

Since 1994, the American Academy of Nursing has named select outstanding members as “Living Legends,” recognizing them for their extraordinary lifetime achievement. A faculty member in the Connell School for 23 years, Gordon is internationally renowned for her visionary development of the Eleven Functional Health Patterns (FHP), an assessment framework that has provided generations of nurses with a format for patient diagnosis. Her groundbreaking work in clinical reasoning and nursing language development has helped give nurses a voice in patient care outcomes and has led to the adoption of nursing language in the emerging area of electronic medical recordkeeping.

BC ARF BOOK CLUB

ARF Book Club in Newport, Rhode Island: Dal Fisher, Laura Fisher, Peg Murphy, Rosemary Krawczyk, Joan Jones, Jean Mooney, and Jean O’Neil.

The Book Club began its season with a discussion of The Gods of Newport by John Jakes followed by a trip to Newport. Dal and Laura Fisher, Joan Jones, Rosemary Krawczyk, Jean Mooney, Peg Murphy, and Jean O’Neil enjoyed audio-guided tours of the Breakers Mansion and The Elms with a delightful lunch in between. The differences in lifestyle of the families occupying these “cottages”, as they were called, sharply contrasted with the Elms, being more relaxed. The landscaping and tree variety of the Elms rivaled the ocean view from the Breakers. The personalities of the occupants echoed characteristics that Jakes illustrated in the people of his novel. The art and architecture was opulent. The stories of costume change for daily life, the size of the closets, the attention to flowers and food and the size of the kitchens underlined the value of the local people, often Irish immigrants, who served these families. There was a note in The Elms from a daughter of an original housekeeper who sent all her children to college. That daughter now lives in view of The Elms. A very interesting story and trip!

Rosemary Krawczyk led the discussion of the October selection People of the Book by Geraldine Brooks, the third book by that author the group has read. Each book was different in theme but similarly based upon intensive historical research.

Autumn concluded with The Brief Wondrous Life of Oscar Wao by Junot Diaz with Eileen Plunkett as discussant moderating strong feelings generated by this reading.

On January 14, 2010 at 10.30 AM Jean Mooney leads discussion of The Guernsey Literary and Potato Peel Pie Society by Mary Ann Shaffer and Annie Barrows. This writing evolved from the experience of the Guernsey Island people, the only British territory occupied by the Nazis during World War II.

Asian Journeys: Collecting Art in Post-war America

The exhibition examines the intersection of history, international relations, personal relationships and art collecting through a rich display of exceptional objects from Asia Society’s jewel-like permanent collection, according to exhibition organizers.

The exhibit explores the sociopolitical context for American collecting of Asian Art in the post–World War II period with a focus on the collecting practice of John D. Rockefeller 3rd (JDR 3rd, 1906–1978, the son of collectors John D. Rockefeller, Jr. and Abby Aldrich Rockefeller), and his wife, Blanchette Hooker Rockefeller (1909–1992).
