THE CHURCH AND CATHOLIC VOTERS IN THE 2020 ELECTION

A Panel Discussion with

M. Cathleen Kaveny
Boston College

Cardinal Joseph Tobin
Archdiocese of Newark

Michael Sean Winters
National Catholic Reporter

A cardinal, a theologian/lawyer, and a journalist discuss the ways the Church -- institutionally, as a teacher, and as a group of diverse people -- will frame the issues and affect Catholic voters in 2020. From abortion to immigration, policy to personality, what does the Catholic Church have to say? And will it matter?
