CELEBRATING THE
16TH ANNUAL ARTS FESTIVAL

This year, the Boston College Arts Council is thrilled to mark the 16th Annual Arts Festival with the theme Filter Your World. Our theme is meant to challenge expectations and traditional perspectives on how we perceive art. In addition, we have continued to develop our brand new festival layout and fresh collaborative programming. The Stokes Art Tent is a combination gallery and small performance space, allowing for innovative programs, increased access to students’ visual art, and an intimate setting for receptions aimed at celebrating the arts. In addition to our new venue on Stokes Lawn, we have updated the Main Tent in response to the University’s renovations to O’Neill Plaza, increasing the size of the tent and the main stage inside. We hope you will enjoy the extra performance space and additional seating as well as improved visibility and accessibility.

THANK YOU TO OUR SPONSORS

The Arts Festival would not be such a success every year without the generous collaboration of our sponsors and supporters. We want to extend a very special “thank you” to: The Office of the President, The Office of the Provost, The Arts Council, The Center for Student Formation, Student Affairs, The Carroll School of Management, and the Office of Marketing and Communication. We are also thankful for the support of the Alumni Association, the Boston College Bookstore, and countless BC community volunteers, performers, and artists.
The Arts Council has selected Anne Garefino '81 as the recipient of the 2014 Alumni Award. Garefino is the award-winning executive producer of the long-running television series South Park and the Broadway musical The Book of Mormon.

Garefino graduated in 1981 with a degree in finance from the Carroll School of Management. In the mid-1980s, she worked as a producer on In Performance at the White House, WETA’s successful series of concert programs celebrating American entertainers and performers. She left public television to study film production at the American Film Institute (AFI) in Los Angeles.

In 1997, through a friend and colleague, Anne met Trey Parker and Matt Stone, two industry upstarts out of the University of Colorado. Comedy Central gave Parker and Stone a development deal for a six-episode series, and Garefino helped them set up a production company, hire animators, and get down to business. South Park debuted on Comedy Central on August 13, 1997, and it has been on television ever since.

Garefino has been executive producer of more than 150 episodes of South Park, now in its 17th season. The show has won numerous awards, including five Emmys and a Peabody Award. Garefino went on to produce two feature-length films with Parker and Stone, South Park: Bigger, Longer & Uncut (1999) and Team America: World Police (2004). Her partnership with Parker and Stone expanded into new territory when they teamed up with Hollywood and Broadway producer Scott Rudin and composer/lyricist Robert Lopez (co-creator of the musical Avenue Q) to create The Book of Mormon, which opened on Broadway in March 2011 and is still running. The production won nine Tony Awards, including Best Musical, Best Book of a Musical, and Best Original Score, and went on to national and international tours.

The Arts Council is proud to award Garefino for her support and commitment to the creative process in television, film, and theater, and her astonishing success as a producer.

ARTS AWARDS CELEBRATION AND RECEPTION
FRIDAY AT 4:00 P.M. IN THE STOKES ART TENT

On Friday evening, the Arts Festival culminates with a celebration of the arts and accomplishments of Boston College artists. Students, faculty, and alumni will be recognized for their significant achievements in the arts as well as their contributions to the arts communities at BC and locally.

The 2014 Arts Alumni Award will be presented to Anne Garefino ‘81 for her outstanding achievements as an executive producer for television and Broadway. (See previous page for details.)

Sullivan Artist-in-Residence Séamus Connolly will be receiving the Faculty Award for 2014. Founder and director of the Gaelic Roots music, song, dance, workshop, and lecture series, Connolly is a member of the Center for Irish Programs. Connolly has been recognized throughout his career for his significant contributions to the community, nation, and the world.

The Arts Council Awards Program also recognizes students who have made significant contributions to the arts in their disciplines. Award recipients will be announced online at www.bc.edu/artsawards.

Vice President for University Mission and Ministry Jack Butler, S.J., and Arts and Sciences Dean David Quigley will present the awards. The brief ceremony will be followed by an open reception and celebration, with entertainment, hors d’oeuvres, and a delectable dessert display. Admission is free and open to the public, but registration is required at www.bc.edu/artsawards or 617–552–4700.

THE DROWSY CHAPERONE
Wednesday – Saturday at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2:00 p.m. Robsham Theater Arts Center

The Boston College Theatre Department presents a rare combination of unprecedented originality and blinding talent. Directed by Boston College Professor Dr. Stuart J. Hecht, The Drowsy Chaperone boldly addresses a great unspoken desire in all of our hearts: to be entertained.

It all begins when a die-hard musical theater fan plays his favorite cast album on his turntable, and the musical literally bursts to life in his living room, telling the rambunctious tale of a brazen Broadway starlet trying to find, and keep, her true love.

*Admission: $15; $10 for seniors or with BC ID. Tickets available at www.bc.edu/robsham or 617–552–4002.
DEVLIN HALL 101
HONORING THE FUTURE:
ARTIST PANEL AND DISCUSSION
Thursday 6:30 – 8:30 p.m.
Devlin Hall 101

The Arts Council and BCEEAN present Honoring the Future, a new nonprofit project dedicated to harnessing the power of art to educate, empower, and engage the public on climate change.

Project Director and BCEEAN Co-Chair Alumna Frances Dubrowski ’70 will present her mission and the extensive body of contemporary art produced in response to a changing climate. “Artists can help us understand—indeed, embrace—our climate challenge and devise new ways to mitigate or adapt to climate change. This program aims to inspire us to consider how we, as individuals, can contribute to building prepared, resilient, ‘climate smart’ communities through simple lifestyle choices.”

Sponsored by the Arts Council, the Arts and Social Responsibility Project, BCEEAN, the ILA, the Environmental Studies Program, the Sustainability Office. Event is free, but registration is required at bc.edu/arts.

MCMULLEN MUSEUM OF ART

Paris Night & Day: Photography between the Wars

Representing the City of Light at its most romantic and its most sinister, the images in Paris Night & Day: Photography between the Wars show how photographers like Man Ray, Henri Cartier-Bresson, Jacques-Henri Lartigue, Ilse Bing, André Kertész, Bill Brandt, Lisette Model, Dora Maar, and Brassaï used their cameras and dark-rooms to represent modern subjects in startling new ways.

LEVEL THREE, O’NEILL LIBRARY

Illuminating Stained Glass: An Exhibition of Selected Decorative Windows of the Bapst and Burns Libraries

The stained glass windows in the Bapst and Burns libraries were designed by Earl Edward Sanborn in the 1920s. The windows illustrate the various disciplines taught at Boston College; the shields of the 54 Jesuit institutions around the world; the genesis of the book; characters from Chaucer and Shakespeare; Jesuit missionaries and martyrs in the New World; as well as literary figures, historians, orators, poets, essayists, novelists, and statesmen. This exhibit features just a small selection of these windows.

LEVEL ONE, O’NEILL LIBRARY

Dirty Charles Cleans Up His Act

Every Bostonian has a fond relation to the Charles River, a symbol of our city. After decades of having notoriously polluted waters, the Charles has gained an infamous reputation as a toxic river system. In recent years, however, one of the most successful environmental restorations of New England has transformed the nasty waters into the safe and swimmable Charles it is today. Through images of the history of the pollution of the Charles River and the clean-up efforts of the twenty-first century, EcoPledge presents an environmental success that is close to home, leaving only the question of if we ever did LOVE that dirty water.

Painting, drawing, sculpture, video art, and photography on display in the newly designed Stokes Art Tent. Set gallery hours, exhibition opening, reception, and gallery walks.

BAPST ART GALLERY

Art Club Spring Exhibition

Self-portraiture show created by the Art Club.

The Student Lens: A Year of Photography at Boston College

The Student Lens: A Year of Photography at Boston College investigates the photograph as fine art throughout a broad range of approaches including analog, digital, book arts, and installation. The exhibition will feature work from students enrolled in the photography courses at Boston College. The works being exhibited have been created in the Digital Diaries, Photography I, II, III, and Digital Photography courses between the Fall of 2013 and the Spring of 2014, taught by Karl Baden, Lisa Kessler, Greer Muldowney, and Toni Pepe Dan.

DEVLIN HALL

South Park Marathon

Thursday, 8:00 - 12:00 p.m.; Friday, 9:00 - 12:00 p.m.; Saturday, Devlin 008, 12:00 - 6:00 p.m.

Marathon of the best South Park episodes in honor of Alumni Award recipient and executive producer of South Park Anne Garefino.

Inside the Studios: Work by Student Artists

Even more student work in an exhibition of painting, drawing, sculpture, and photography. Devlin Hall, 4th floor hallway.
