ROUND TABLE MISSION

The Roundtable Mission is to create a supportive network of exceptional Community-Based Programs, expert consultants, and academics with a shared commitment to impact their communities in a value-added manner. Through this network the Roundtable will foster program-to-program mentoring and cultivate mutual resources as well as the sharing of knowledge and skills. Finally, the Roundtable will support participating programs by addressing challenges of leadership capacity building, implementation of strategic planning, staff development, and sustainability. The Roundtable aims to define best practices and strengthen the ties between Community-Based Programs in a coalition that enhances their capacity to effectively address the multitude of challenges facing the children, families, and populations in their neighborhoods.

DIRECTOR OF THE ROUND TABLE WELCOME LETTER

Welcome to the Boston College Nelson Chair Roundtable on Examining Neighborhood-Based Change. This year marks our ninth Roundtable and our second year collaborating with the Boston Promise Initiative.

“Demonstrating Collective Impact” – the 2016 Roundtable theme – represents our belief that effective community development is a product of strategic collaboration among partnering organizations. Working in the “silo model” as a singular organization to confront community challenges is not as effective as working together in a coalition. We embrace the African saying: “The webs of many spiders tie down a lion.” As organizations we have resources and capacities that both differ and overlap. When brought together it unleashes enormous potential to bring about change in our communities. The Roundtable seeks to build upon the rich knowledge and capacities of organizations through promoting the sharing of inter-organizational information, best practices in leadership and organizational effectiveness. This can be done at the national, state and local levels given the will. We have an opportunity to model this behavior at this Roundtable in partnership with the Boston Promise Initiative.

Therefore, welcome to the Roundtable experience. During this time we hope you will relax, connect to each other as resourceful participants, engage conversations, exchange information, and build or renew partnerships.

Sincerely,

Anderson J. Franklin, Ph.D.
Director, Nelson Chair Roundtable

HONORABLE DAVID S. NELSON

David S. Nelson was born in 1933 in Roxbury, Massachusetts, to parents who were Jamaican natives. He received his B.S. from Boston College in 1957 and graduated from Boston College School of Law in 1960. Judge Nelson began his professional career with the Boston law firm of Crane, Inker and Oteri, where he worked until 1973. From 1968 to 1969, Judge Nelson served as a United States Commissioner for the United States District Court, District of Massachusetts. In 1971, Judge Nelson became the first African-American to serve as an Assistant Attorney General for the State of Massachusetts, as Chief of the Consumer Protection Division. In 1973, he was appointed Justice of the Superior Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Judge Nelson received the “Judge of the Year Award” from the Massachusetts Academy of Trial Attorneys in 1977. On March 23, 1979, President Jimmy Carter appointed Judge Nelson as a judge to the United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts, making him the first African-American to serve in this role.

Judge Nelson was active in the community and at Boston College, where he served on the Board of Trustees for five terms and was its chairman from 1984–1987. In 1979, he received an honorary Doctor of Laws Degree from BC and served as the commencement speaker. In 1995, the University established the Honorable David S. Nelson Professional Chair, to be held by an African-American professor who reflects the “educational aspirations and human qualities” so prominent in Judge Nelson’s career and his civic involvement. Judge Nelson retired from the federal bench in 1995 and died on October 21, 1998.

LYNCH SCHOOL OF EDUCATION, BOSTON COLLEGE
MISSION STATEMENT

The Lynch School of Education at Boston College, a Catholic and Jesuit university, endeavors to improve the human condition through education and applied psychology. We pursue this goal through excellence and ethics in teaching, research, and service. We prepare undergraduate and graduate students to serve diverse populations in a variety of professional roles - as teachers, administrators, human service providers, psychologists, and researchers. Through research, we seek to advance knowledge in our respective fields to inform policy and improve practice. As teachers, scholars, and learners, we engage in collaborative school and community improvement efforts locally, nationally, and internationally. What unites our diverse work is the underlying aspiration to enhance the human condition, to expand the human imagination, and to make the world more just.
Sheena Collier is the Boston Promise Initiative Director at Dudley Street Neighborhood Initiative; leading one of twelve federally-funded Promise Neighborhoods as they build a continuum of academic, family, & community supports, with effective schools at the center.

She has served as a community organizer, project manager, partnership builder, and team leader for a number of organizations over the past 10 years.

Her career and volunteer experiences have focused on developing and implementing high-quality programming and policies for women, children and youth, and schools and communities. Sheena's work has been informed by her belief in the concept of "microdemocracy" – an idea that ordinary encounters with public agencies are opportunities for individual citizens to “act democratically” and participate effectively in decisions that affect them. It changes the framework through which these institutions can approach their work; instead of simply helping, they are teaching others how to help themselves. This is a cornerstone of the way she approaches work with children and families.

Sheena received an Ed.M. from Harvard Graduate School of Education in the Risk & Prevention program (now Prevention Science) and a B.A. in Psychology from Spelman College.

Juan Leyton is the new Executive Director of Dudley Street Neighborhood Initiative (DSNI). Juan brings his extensive experience in community organizing and advocacy, leadership and economic development to DSNI’s resident-led community development mission.

His past experiences include the Local Enterprise Assistance Fund, Greater Boston Latino Network, MIT Community Innovators Lab (CoLab) and NeighborWorks America. He was also the director of Neighbor to Neighbor Massachusetts and City Life/ Vida Urbana.

Juan has worked in various policies including the increase of Latinos in position of power in Boston, the reform of CORI statewide and the increase of the state minimum wage. As a community organizer, Juan worked to stop the displacement of low income tenants and the need for preserving affordable housing in Boston.

He has also served as a Barr Foundation Fellow and a MIT Mel King Community Fellow. Juan holds a Master in Public Policy from Tufts University.

The Boston Promise Initiative (BPI)’s mission is to create a community of opportunity — centered around strong schools, strong families, and strong neighborhoods - that allows every child to learn, grow, and succeed.

BPI will transform the neighborhoods of Roxbury and North Dorchester into the Dudley Village Campus (DVC) - a learning environment where all children have access to high-quality schools and strong systems of family and community support from cradle to college to career.

Our goal is to create a lifelong infrastructure, built by parent leaders and local partners, providing access to high-quality early childhood and educational opportunities, positive youth development, and college & career pathways in the DVC.

The DVC is bound to the east by Columbia Road from Grove Hall to Edward Everett Square; to the north via Massachusetts Avenue and Melnea Cass Boulevard, reaching Harrison Avenue in Dudley Square; and to the west by Warren Street, intersecting with Washington Street in Grove Hall.

A GEOGRAPHY OF SOCIAL CHANGE

Boston is one of America’s founding cities and hosts, perhaps, its most complex street plans. Geography has always been a key component in the development of cohesive communities; particularly in the neighborhoods of Roxbury and North Dorchester, which are rich in a cultural history that has experienced dramatic shifts over time.
Chula Vista Promise Neighborhood (CVPromise) is coordinated by South Bay Community Services (SBCS) and brings together a collaboration of partners focused on family, education, health and community to provide children in Castle Park neighborhood with the kind of opportunities they need to excel in school, get into college, find good jobs and lead healthy lives.

Bringing the Promise to Chula Vista. SBCS has long believed that family struggles do not remain isolated – families as a whole are affected as well as the community in which they live. That is why it made perfect sense for SBCS to reach out to its community partners and bring the Promise to Chula Vista families. Chula Vista Promise Neighborhoods was one of seven awarded the 2012 Promise Neighborhood implementation grant fund.

Castle Park Community. CVPromise’s target neighborhood of Castle Park covers 33 census blocks and has a population of 6,744. It is characterized by high rates of poverty, low English language proficiency and lack of early learning supports. About 67% of adults do not have their high school diploma and 52% of households do not have an adult employed full time. A Chula Vista Elementary School District report shows that almost 25% of students in the area are obese. Almost two-thirds of families receive some type of assistance and six out of 10 children qualify for publicly funded health insurance. CVPromise supports Castle Park Elementary, Castle Park Middle School, Castle Park High School and Hilltop Middle School and Hilltop High School.

Partners Make the Promise: Coordinated by SBCS, CVPromise brings together a collaboration of partners – 28 local government agencies, non-profit organizations and businesses – who have signed on to provide over $33 million in matching funds, making the total investment of over $60 million. CVPromise partners have developed an impressive plan for a seamless continuum of ‘cradle to career’ solutions that creates high expectations for all children and provides a clear and viable pathway to college and career success.

There is an African proverb, "The web of many spiders tie down a lion." We believe that through better collaboration between Community-Based Programs the array of problems that beset underserved communities can be tamed under a web of effective collaborative services.

Dr. Anderson J. Franklin

Nkonsonkonson – Ghana, West Africa

Adinkra symbol of the chain link represents unity and human relationships. It is a reminder to contribute to the community and that in unity lies strength.

Ananse Ntontan – Ghana, West Africa

Adinkra symbol of the spider’s web is a symbol of wisdom, creativity and the complexities of life. Ananse, the spider, is a well-known character in many African folktales.

Achimota Nsafoa (Achimota Keys) – Ghana, West Africa

This Akan Kente Weft motif is a symbol of knowledge, unity in diversity and harmony. The motif represents the logo of Achimota, the black and white keys of the piano. One can make a melody on either the black or the white keys, but it is in playing both together that one creates harmony.
